

The attendees of a typical CMS event are normally those who already know it. With CMS Garden the communities are reaching out to a broader audience:

- ✓ decision makers
- ✓ web editors
- ✓ marketeers
- ✓ IT administrators
- ✓ web hosters
- ✓ press
- ✓ government
- ✓ young talents
- ✓ developers, designers, devops, usability experts, project managers, web agencies, ...

STOP MAKING A FUSS.

WE'RE ALL FOSS.

CALL TO ACTION

- ➔ Be an ambassador for your favorite CMS
- ➔ Promote this non-profit project
- ➔ Register your account at cms-garden.org
- ➔ Become a member
- ➔ Join forces with cross-community volunteers

YES, LET'S SUPPORT THIS PROJECT!

Person Organization

Organization/company

First name

Last name

Contact's role/job

Postal address

E-Mail

Application for membership as a full member sustaining member with an annual fee of

Annual fees

Personal member: € 100.-

Organizational member: € 1 000.-

(min € 100.-)

Acknowledging details about membership + statutes at cms-garden.org

Date, signature of applicant

How many times have open source communities re-invented the wheel? Wait a moment, don't we know how to share and collaborate?

MARKETING

There are many trade fairs and conferences where our target groups meet. CMS Garden gathers ambassadors at exhibition booths to help visitors make educated decisions.

PUBLICATIONS

The CMS Gardener's Guide is an independent not-for-profit publication that supports decision-making by comparison and helps avoiding major mistakes in web project planning.

WORKING GROUPS

Security, data privacy, camp organization, attracting new talents, growing the community... there are so many topics we have in common. CMS Garden already founded/supports some. More initiatives welcome!

SINGLE POINT OF CONTACT

Offices of the public sector, other FLOSS communities, conference organizers, press ... there are many groups who are really happy to have a single point of contact to the Free and Open Source CMS. CMS Garden collects requests and offers for diverse opportunities. Stay in touch!